

WHAT IS FARCE?

The FARCE project focuses on promoting climate change awareness through satire and comedy.

The project aims to create various comedic content such as videos, photos, memes and performances that will raise awareness about climate change in a fun, yet educational way.

Climate change is without a doubt one of the biggest issues we face as a worldwide community. However, at times it can be difficult for us to become motivated in our quest to change the world, especially when climate change can often seem so bleak on the news.

FARCE hopes to tackle the hard reporting we often see, and instead focus on a more positive infotainment approach, one that's more likely to get a chuckle along the way.

BUT HOW?

Our approach will feature a compendium of comedic and learning resources, an In-service training programme and finally a 'MOOC' or 'Massive Open Online Course'.

The compendium of comedic and learning resources will feature 49 unique comedy pieces that will not only have you laughing, but also learning!

The in-service training programme and the MOOC however will support professionals and educators to implement the FARCE approach and skillsets into their lives and others.

WHAT'S NEXT?

So far, the FARCE project partners have all been busy creating and practicing their best jokes and we can't wait to share them with you! Our team has been hard at work creating different materials, but we are excited to share a few teasers with you already!

The project partners are excited to meet soon to discuss the development of the comedic learning resources, preparing them for their release.
